The Mosa Funk Club is a funky communications collective, straight from the heart of the East End of Glasgow, with a fierce ambition and a commitment to keeping rhythm, rhyme and soul at the forefront of their agenda. Firstly, a word of advice, if your idea of funk begins and ends with the theme tune from Shaft, retro silver hot pants or Huggy Bear’s latest strides, forget it: this is the genuine article - musical tourists and posturing scenesters out for the next shallow trend to follow need not apply.

She is having an affair with the music teacher and has had one with the art teacher, and this is not the most exemplary conduct.

An Evening with Phil Differ
Friday 18 March 2016 / 8.00pm
£10.00 / £8.00 concession

Comedy writer, producer, director and comedian Phil Differ presents an evening of two halves. In the first, standup comedy and in the second, showbiz tales from a career spanning thirty five years. In his own inimitable laid back style, Phil reminisces on his misspent youth, discusses the problems of being a middle-aged man trapped in a 20 year olds body and reveals how you go from being a failed accounts clerk with British Telecom to becoming Senior Producer in BBC Scotland’s Comedy Unit and being part of the team responsible for such television shows as Naked Video, City Lights, Rab C. Nesbitt, Scotch and Wry and Only an Excuse? So, what’s it like working with comedy icons like Rikki Fulton? Who is the funniest of all the performers he has encountered? What might be the pitfalls of filming in Cumbernauld Town Centre with Robbie Coltrane dressed as the Pope? Tonight Phil will reveal all... provided there aren’t any lawyers present.

Bouncers

by John Godber

Directed by Neil Millar

Wednesday 30 March – Friday 1 April 2016 / 8.00pm

£10.00 / £8.00 concession

It’s Friday night. Club night – time for the city to come to life and the bouncers to be on the lookout. Lucky Eric, Judd, Les and Ralph will guide us through an evening at a Yorkshire night club introducing us to the boys, the girls, the cheesy DJ, the state of the toilets, the drunk lads trying to get in, the late night kebab and the taxi ride home – all set against the tatty, glitzy glamour, flashing lights and pulsating beat of the dance floor.

Four actors play over 20 different characters, each taking the audience on a journey through a very special night on the town. However – there is one big difference with Upfront’s production of this popular play: all of the parts will be played by female actors.

The Carlton Jug Band plus Kittlinclapperdin

Saturday 2 April 2016 / 8.00pm
£9.00 / £7.00 concession

East Kilbride Arts Centre would like to welcome back The Carlton Jug Band. Born in Carlton Studios at the turn of the millennium, they play a mix of country blues, ranging from traditional bluegrass, blues, to Americana, including songs by Carter, Cash, The Stones, Alabama 3 and Prine. In the words of Loving Spoonful, ‘cause the doctor said give ‘em Jug band music it seems to make ‘em feel just fine’, audience and band enjoy the ‘feel good factor’ with guitar, mandolin, sax, drums, bass, mouthie, fiddle, vocals and percussion. 10 members with a full jug, sometimes 11 with a special guest.

And if that’s not enough, making their Arts Centre debut are Kittlinclapperdin; Scot’s for ‘noisy cats’. It’s what they used to call gossips. It is the witches’ secret name in a Scottish version of Rumplestiltskin; however Kittlinclapperdin is reclaiming this din as a fine and positive thing. A melodic purring of cat’s gut by Lisa Petticrew on fiddle, alongside her daughter Yana on Clarsach, quivers the Celtic gene in aw a Jeanie Tamson’s bairns. Lisa also plays piano and glockenspiel, sweet as the dew of Alba. Whilst flautist, Margaret Smith massages yer soul and the stories, poetry and song of Lesley O’Brien will tinker wi yer heart. Vocal harmonies are, of course, purrrfect. 21st century folk based upon stories from long, long ago.

Spongers and Last Call for Carrot Cake

Spongers

When uncouth Mrs Savage and her ne’er-do-well son, Tam, are evicted, they move into the home of her other son, Jim who is away working in England. Pompous Jim and his new wife Edith return unexpectedly and are faced with a house in chaos from Tam’s wild parties with his ‘friend’ Maisie and other undesirables. The last thing toffy Edith wants is to share her house with her in-laws. Chaos abounds in this hectic comedy.

Last Call for Carrot Cake

Three people wait to see the village doctor: neurotic Mrs Kirk, desperate for her supply of tranquillisers, busybody Mrs Hogg, crippled with painful piles, and arrogant Mr Fowler a drugs company rep - or is he, as Mrs. Kirk believes, a crazed murderer?

Enter a stranger to the village, who looks like an old tramp but claims he’s there to oversee the imminent demise of all concerned. A raucous black comedy.

Kim Simpson - Girls and their Mothers

Thursday 4 to Sunday 28 February 2016
10.00am to 8.00pm
Free Admission

‘Girls and their Mothers’ is a collection of photographic portraits featuring girls of mixed race and their mothers who reside in Scotland.

This exhibition includes portraits of sixteen different families who live across central Scotland. The images were created by photographer Kim Simpson who photographed these portraits throughout Spring 2015 in East Kilbride where she resides with her daughter who is also of mixed race. It has often been assumed that Kim’s daughter is not Scottish, and more often that they are not related due to their visual differences. Kim wanted to explore this societal issue by meeting and photographing people who live in towns and cities across the central belt, and across generations to discover similarities or differences in experiences. These families, like her own, are just the same as yours.

Instead of questioning their ancestry or scrutinising their appearance, Kim chose to photograph girls and women of mixed race along with their mothers with an intent to question social perception of skin deep differences, and look at the often complex identity of multiracial individuals. These images display their relationships, connecting these girls and their mothers together while at the same time respecting their disparity.

These closely framed portraits afford a close up and personal confrontation of how strong Scottish iconology plays a part in influencing societal ideas of what is considered the norm.
Fiona Love
Thursday 3 to Sunday 27 March 2016

“I love painting buildings, but also still life, and the treasures I find on beach combing expeditions on the Solway. Whatever the subject, flowers, shells or architecture, I am intrigued by the form, lines and texture of each structure and try to evoke their mood and individual character.”

One of the most explosive movie musicals in recent memory bursts onto the live stage with exhilarating results. When Ren and his mother move from Chicago to a small farming town, Ren is prepared for the inevitable adjustment period at his new high school. What he isn’t prepared for are the rigorous local edicts, including a ban on dancing instituted by the local preacher, determined to exercise the control over the town’s youth that he cannot command in his own home. When the reverend’s rebellious daughter sets her sights on Ren, her roughneck boyfriend tries to sabotage Ren’s reputation, with many of the locals eager to believe the worst about the new kid.

The heartfelt story that emerges is of a father longing for the son he lost and of a young man aching for the father who walked out on him. Footloose celebrates the wisdom of listening to young people, guiding them with a warm heart and an open mind. Musical numbers include Holding Out For A Hero, Let’s Hear It For The Boy and Footloose.

These Divas are brought together by the outrageous Ms Cheri Treiffel. Not to be missed!
